STAT

Immediately following our meeting and specifically on December 1st, I became engaged to Mary Pitcairn whom you may recall as General Bradley's secretary. With an ordinary amount of regular work and a most extraordinary amount of outside activity directed toward a marriage ceremony on February 10th, I have been regrettably slow in following up our discussion. As a matter of fact, I have asked each of the Assistant Directors in fields of your interest to advise me whether or not they would have a place for you commensurate with your experience and ability. So far, no such place has been found.

I shall be away from the office from February 10th until March 1st and when I return I shall immediately re-examine the question. If you will give me a call on Monday, March 5th, I shall be in a position to let you know definitely whether or not there is a place here which would be worth your consideration.

With best personal regards and with apologies for my delay in writing to you,

Very sincerely,

S/-
